

EMAIL TEMPLATE — Cleared to Close

STAGE 06 · SENT WHEN ALL CONDITIONS ARE SATISFIED

Subject: Cleared to close — {{PROPERTY_ADDRESS}}

Hi {{BORROWER_FIRST_NAME}},

You're cleared to close on {{PROPERTY_ADDRESS}}. We have everything we need from you.

Closing details

Date	{{CLOSING_DATE}}
Location	{{TITLE_COMPANY}}
	{{TITLE_COMPANY_ADDRESS}}
Closer	{{CLOSER_NAME}} · {{CLOSER_PHONE}}

{{TITLE_COMPANY}} will confirm your closing time directly.

What to bring

- Government-issued photo ID for every person signing — must be unexpired
- Certified funds or a wire for the amount shown on your settlement statement

Funds due at closing

{{TITLE_COMPANY}} will send you a settlement statement with the exact amount you owe at closing. That statement covers everything — your down payment, our fees, and all title, escrow, and recording charges.

Wire early. Same-day wires often miss the cutoff, and a late wire means a rescheduled closing.

What you'll be signing

Promissory Note, Deed of Trust, Personal Guarantee from each principal, Business Purpose and Non-Homestead Affidavit, Payment Instructions, and a W-9. Every principal and guarantor needs to be present, and a notary will be there.

If someone can't attend in person, tell us now — not the day before. Powers of attorney take time to set up and have to be approved in advance.

After closing

We'll send you a welcome letter with your loan number, where payments go, and how to request draws. Your first interest payment will be due {{FIRST_PAYMENT_DATE}}.

{{AT_CLOSING_DISBURSEMENT_NOTE}}

Anything you need before then, call me.

NOTES

- `{{AT_CLOSING_DISBURSEMENT_NOTE}}` — one line on what funds at closing versus what stays in holdback. Wording depends on the draw model decision (reimbursement vs. initial draw), so leave it flexible until that's settled.
- The ID and attendance warnings are deliberate. Expired licenses and a principal who's out of town are the two most common reasons a closing gets pushed, and both are avoidable with a week's notice.
- "Wire early" — worth keeping. Missed wire cutoffs cost more closings than anything else.
- No dollar figures in this email. Every number comes from the title company's settlement statement. Quoting an estimate that differs from their final figure creates confusion at the table.
